Dear Burrows:

By separate mail I am sending you the corrected page proof. You were right with regard to what you said you had written me concerning the transcription of Shera. I have gone over the spelling very carefully, and have decided to transcribe it Shera, which is also in accordance with the transcription of Musil and Abel. It seems usually to be spelt There are also transcriptions of it as Shera. I have changed Medain to Medain. I am also sending the Ms. of the Index with all of the page numbers put in.

Dr. Morgenstern returned to town Saturday, and yesterday, Monday, was the first chance I had to talk to him, and then only for a few minutes, about our meeting with Warburg. We are going to talk about the matter again shortly. He was much more receptive of the idea of another leave-of-absence for me than I thought he might at first be. To be sure that does not mean that he may decide that it is impossible to let me go away again. I shall keep you informed of the progress of our conversations.

With cordial greetings,

sincerely,

N G

P.S. I am sending on the Index Ms. to you although in a recent letter Speiser told me to send it directly to the printer. I thought it might all just as well go to the printer together.
